Poem by UNCLE JOHN

JANUARY

Though she's fickle and contrary, there's a charm in Janooary, to the feller that's accustomed to her curves. . . . With her north wind skallyhootin' and her temperature pirootin' in among a feller's sensitory nerves! And, when she fights a duel with the little jag-o-fuel, that's waitin' out-o'-doors to keep ye warm,—O, it takes a cheerful giver, and an optimistic liver, to demonstrate old Janooary's charm. . . .

But—when the neighbors gather in defiance of the weather—to taste the joys of settin' by the fire, there's an institute of learnin' where the home-fires is a-burnin'—where patriotism is parent of desire! Then we find in Janooary, not a bandit gaunt an' bleary, but a bosom friend beneath the wintry vest. . . . Where we find congenial labor, swappin' ideas with our neighbor, and adoptin' the conclusion which is best! . . .

While her breath is mighty searchin' where the naked trees is lurchin' and there aint no hint of mercy in her grip,—yet the maple-sap flows sweeter, and the spring shall dawn completer, at the final crack of Janooary's whip. . . . Then, rally all ye merry, to the call of Janooary,
—Awake, an' taste the real joys of life,—No season more entrancin' with fiddlin' an' dancin'
—Brace up, an' get acquainted with yer wife!

Yr. own Uncle John.

THE CASE OF A TRAMP

YEARS ago when the editor of this newspaper was running a daily paper in Alaska a tramp printer came into the office. There was nothing for him to do and the nearest point at which he might obtain work was far away. The fare on the steamship was $40.00. Following the hard-luck story put up by the nomad the writer provided the ticket. The man's name was Jesse Webb. The wanderer sailed for the westward section of Alaska and the next the writer heard of him he read in the newspapers he was held for a cold-blooded murder in Portland. That was 12 years ago. Dispatches this week from Portland said: "Jesse Webb, who on the night of June 20, 1910, murdered W. A. Johnson a rancher, in a room in the Grand Central hotel in Portland, walked out of the gates of the state penitentiary last Thursday with his pardon in his pockets. It is thought the case of Jesse Webb is one of complete reformation. He has been a great factor in the prison in leading young fellows who have slipped to redeem themselves. His sentence first was to be hanged and due to the pleading of his daughter this was commuted to life imprisonment. Since his incarceration both his wife and daughter have died. He has received $2,000 receipts from a book on prison life he has published and will leave for the east where he has a position awaiting him."

Jesse Webb was a drifter, a defective but seemingly imprisonment has not embittered him and who is there who can say that, in the big final analysis, if he keeps on trying to help others, he may not come back?

FAIR PLAY

JUST at this time there is a whole lot of controversy over Roscoe Arbuckle's case. Even the clergy is divided. The big majority of ministers favor ostracism of the rotund comedian, but there is one who does not. That minister is Evangelist Billy Sunday. He thinks Roscoe Arbuckle should be given a chance and he does not mince matters when taking his position either. Here is what he says:

"I'm a preacher of the gospel and the gospel gives every fellow a chance. If it didn't there wouldn't be any churches. If these preachers had more real Christian forgiveness in their souls, so many of them wouldn't be preaching to wood and varnish.

"I've been preaching forgiveness for 26 years. I hate sin—but I love the sinner.

"Everybody has been a fool some time. But nobody is a fool all the time. The only difference between Fatty and others is that Fatty got caught.

"Will Hays is a mighty fine man. I think he's showing more Christian spirit than a lot of sky pilots who are up on their ear about it."

To the man in the street who, while perhaps not much of a church member, but who also is not a Pharisee, the position of Billy Sunday is not far wrong.

EASY TO QUARREL

AN even-tempered editor the other day said editorially in his newspaper: "Most fussing is about nothing. So is most enmity; so most jealousy. Take the case of the resturanteur and his customer who got into an argument and then into a fight about a match. It is really typical of most disagreements. The match would not light. The patron made a curt remark. Instead, he could have asked politely for another match. The proprietor resented the slur. Instead, he could have handed the customer a light. The customer seized an ice-pick as a weapon, and the restauranteur a club, and when the police arrived the latter had a cut on the shoulder and the former's left arm was broken."

The truth of the matter is discord and fighting generally results from a trifle. We quarrel about nothing, or about something that is not worth fussing about.

It would always be infinitely better if, when one is out of sorts, they would delay discussing imaginary wrongs with the party at whom they felt aggrieved. The chances are that, after the first resentment had disappeared, they would be in a better mood and the misunderstandings might be ironed out satisfactorily. Every question has two sides to it and while you many times imagine all justice is on your side, it is quite often found, after a calm consideration of the situation, the merit was not all yours, after all.

MISUNDERSTOOD

Conductor No. 1004, in charge of an afternoon train out of Washington for New York, was ready to start, with several carloads of passengers, including a number of congressmen.

"All right back there?" he called, standing near the front of the train.

"Hold on, boss!" called a feminine voice, "wait till a hgets mah clothes on!"

Six carfuls of passengers thrust their heads out of windows and craned their necks expectantly. They saw a negro mammy struggling on with a basket of clothes.—Boston Globe.

WILL SILENCE IT

"Overcoats should be seen and not heard," runs an ad, probably hitting at some of the loud ones now on sale. Reminds us that the other day we heard a man say to his friend:

Dry Officers Are Not All-Powerful

A blow to drastic search and seizure under the Wright act was delivered last week by District Attorney Brady in an opinion instructing Chief of Police O'Brien of San Francisco, that California's "little Volstead" law does not give police officers the right to raid or search on mere suspicion.

Citizens Have Rights

The opinion holds that the police must have a search warrant, or know that the law is being violated before they can violate the sanctity of California's homes or interfere with citizens or their automobiles. It means that if the police search homes, automobiles or the persons of citizens on the suspicion they possess or are tranporting liquor, their action is illegal. Even if they find liquor, it cannot be used as evidence because it was discovered unlawfully.

Abuses Must End

Under District Attorney Brady's opinion, supported by precedents in decisions by high courts, the fear of raids and searches at the whim of a policeman is removed.

Exciting Work In Rescuing The Crew

After clinging to the bare sea-washed rocks on a narrow ledge of a cliff for three hours, eight sailors were rescued early Thursday of last week at Russian Gulch, two miles north of Mendocino City.

A few feet below, their craft, the gas schooner Stockton City, a coastwise cargo vessel, was being dashed to pieces in a heavy sea, after dragging its anchor in the storm which swept the coast Wednesday night.

When their vessel was plunged on the rocks the eight members of the crew fought their way over the rocks through the breaking surf and climbed up the side of the stone wall until help arrived at dawn.

The rescue of the men by citizens from Mendocino City will go down in history for its daring.

Ropes Were Lowered

Citizens attracted to the scene by distress rockets lowered ropes over the side of the precipice, but the sailors, unable to assist themselves, continued to cling desperately to the wall, fearing to loosen their hold as they became stiffened from exposure.

Then it was that several of the rescuers volunteered to go down the wall. After two hours of effort, during which every moment was filled with peril with giant waves lashing high over the rocks and drenching the men and with darkness, adding further danger, the first man was pulled up over the top.

One sailor narrowly escaped death by drowning after being swept from the rocks by a huge comber. He was saved with difficulty.

At dawn all the sailors were rescued. They were rushed to Mendocino City, where all were suffering from exposure and cuts from the jagged rocks.

Ship Was Destroyed

Their ship is a total loss. She broke up in the surf as her crew were yet clinging to the rocks. Only her bow protrudes above the turbulent waters. Her cargo littered the beach and was salvaged by villagers.

Northbound to Fort Bragg from San Francisco, the Stockton City had a cargo of general merchandise. She was under command of Captain Victor Helgas, who resides at Burlingame. She is owned by the Wagner Leather company.

Captain Helgas was in Fort Bragg at the time of the wreck.

Leon Barker returned last week to San Francisco after enjoying the holidays in the old home town.

Charles Grant was a passenger on Friday evening's train from San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barker were guests of their son, F. T. Barker and family over the holidays. They returned to San Francisco this week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Eversole were among the Ukiahites who welcomed the New Year in San Francisco.

Frank L. Perkins, now one of the leading publicity men in the Los Angeles automobile business, drove up Sunday last and visited several days with his mother, relatives and old friends.

Ukiah Man's Brother Stabbed By Mexican

Word reached this city last week that Edwin York, a brother of Roy York of this city, had been seriously stabbed by a Mexican in Texas.

Wife Went To Son

Upon receipt of the news the wife of the injured man, left at once for her son's bedside. Sincea rriving at the scene she has found the injuries were not as serious as at first reported. Hrs. York will start for Ukiah as soon as Mr. York's injuries will permit. The York family are well known here and at Upper Lake where they owned extensive property interests and where Mr. Edwin York is familiarly known as "Chub" by all his friends.

Mrs. Thomas Brydon was a business visitor to Ukiah Saturday.

James Mannon went to Stanford Friday to witness the big football game between his college and Piftsburg Saturday.

E. L. Cunningham went to San Francisco the middle of the week and planned on being home today.

LOCAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Thomas and two children enjoyed the holidays in San Francisco where they took an apartment for several weeks.

Mrs. C. W. Bradford, who is teaching in Yolo county, enjoyed the holidays with her family at their ranch home west of town.

Mrs. Ruth DeMerritt and grandson, Billy Lawton, have returned from a holiday visit in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. McNab are at their country home below Largo and will remain until after New Year.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Tadlock have returned from a holiday visit with relatives in the bay cities.

Long And Useful Career Was Ended

In the death of Mrs. Rebekah Smith yesterday morning Mendocino county loses one of its oldest pioneer women. Mrs. Smith was born in Kentucky in 1827 and crossed the plains by ox team in 1857. She lived for a long time in Willits with her son, Milo Rucker, and, later, upon her marriage to P. Smith, moved to Potter valley where she resided, until recently and where interment will take place today. Mrs. Smith is survived by three granddaughters, Flora Weiss and Mrs. Maud Messner of San Francisco and Mrs. Clarence Gibson of Healdsburg.

FORT BRAGG IS AFTER A MODERN HOTEL—NEEDS IT

At the regular weekly luncheon at the Community Club in Fort Bragg the question of a modern hotel for the city was the subject of discussion. It is recognized a modern hotel is something badly needed in Fort Bragg and the sentiment of those present seemed in favor of going after the proposition in a way that would accomplish the desired ends.

PRETTY PRACTICE HELPED PROVIDE A PROPER SPIRIT

Following their annual custom employes in the track department of the California Western Ry., cut and brought in many beautiful Xmas trees which were distributed free to those of Fort Bragg who cared to take them away, many families have no means of getting out in the woods to procure a tree and this courtesy on the part of the railroad men is very commendable and cannot fail to be greatly appreciated.

MADE GOOD SHOWING

Edgar Stout of this city came out third in the annual New Year's cross city run to the ocean shore in San Francisco on New Year's day. Young Stout has figured many times in the run and carried off first honors upon one occasion. He is a Ukiah boy and received his first training in long distance running in the Ukiah high school. He is the son of Mrs. Ella Stout of this city.

ENTER TEACHERS' COLLEGE

C. H. and R. N. Luce, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Luce, left this week for San Francisco where they have entered the state teachers' college.

School Furniture Is Made By Convicts

A carload of furniture arrived recently at the local depot. The furniture is assigned to the Ukiah elementary school and most of it was manufactured in the state prison plant at San Quentin. The load consisted mostly of tables and chairs for the kindergarten and primary grade apartments of the school and is very attractive in design and finish.

VICTOR BERGSTROM WAS TAKEN ILL ON A VISIT

H. L. Bergstrom, Victor Bergstrom and Miss Anna Bergstrom have returned from a ten days' visit in San Francisco, having arrived Monday evening at their home in this city. Their visit was marred somewhat by the illness of Victor Bergstrom who suffered a relapse following an influenza attack and was taken to an Oakland hospital for a minor operation. He has entirely recovered now and the family are glad to be back.

Miss E. Bolomey, of San Francisco, after a visit of four days with Mrs. Elizabeth Perkins, returned to San Francisco Sunday.

William Barlow Was Laid Away Sunday

Funeral services were held in this city Monday for William Barlow, for more than 30 years an employee of the Mendocino state hospital. Mr. Barlow died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roller, Saturday following a long illness and interment was in the local cemetery. The funeral service was under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias with whom Mr. Barlow had been affiliated for many years. He was about 72 years old and was one of the most faithful of the employes of the hospital, taking a position there immediately following its opening and remaining until recently when failing health prompted his retirement. Mr. Barlow enjoyed the esteem and friendship of all those connected with the big institution and his death brought sorrow to many.

CLASSES RESUMED AFTER THE CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS

The Ukiah schools opened Tuesday morning with a good attendance following a week's holiday. The shortness of the vacation time was made necessary by the fact that the schools were late in opening last fall.

RECEPTION FOR VISITING CITY FIREMEN IS PLANNED

Upon the arrival of the San Francisco fire department representatives the local firemen will likely entertain them at a dinner and also at a reception at The Victory Theatre. The expected reception-dinner will take place January 9.

FOUR LITTLE STRANGERS

The following births were recorded by Dr. L. K. Van Allen last week: To Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sprague of Redwood valley on Dec. 28, a daughter; to Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Harmon of Hopland, on Dec. 28, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Boyd, of Calpella, on Dec. 29, a daughter; to Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Bogner, on Dec. 31, a daughter.

HOME FOR RE-UNION

Miss Juanita Gowell, of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Silverthorn, of Willits, were here to pass the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gowell.

DIED AT TALMAGE

Mrs. Alice Crosby died yesterday at the Mendocino state hospital. Mrs. Crosby was about 60 years old. The body will be shipped to Santa Rosa today for burial.

J. H. BARKER TO BECOME BUILDER

J. H. Barker, Frank McPeak, A. Heger and two others have formed a pool and will shortly enter the Los Angeles building field. Mr. McPeak is a competent constructionist and Mr. Barker understands hardware and plumbing and these two will, largely, supervise the erection of small bungalows. The plan is to have a combination of capital, each of the five putting in $20,000 and with this sum purchase land and erect the houses which will afterwards be sold on the installment plan.

To Live In South

As The Republican Press gets its information Mr. Barker will make his home in the southern city the greater portion of the time.

WENT TO SANTA ROSA

A number of the members of local society motored to Santa Rosa Saturday to attend the New Year's ball of the Elks in that city.

DAMP, CHANGING WEATHER

Brings Its Toll of Sickness to Ukiah People.

Chilly, damp, changing weather is hard on the kidneys.

Even more irritating are colds, grip and pneumonia;

They congest the kidneys:

They bring backache and disordered kidney action.

For weak kidneys use a tested remedy.

Ukiah people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor?

Mrs. R. T. Sullivan, 210 Clara Ave., Ukiah, says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills a splendid remedy as I have used them on different occasions when my kidneys have been disordered caused by colds settling on them. I felt dull and had no energy and my back was weak and ached so, I could scarcely do my work. Doan's Kidney Pills always relieved these attacks, strengthening my back and kidneys."
